

Poster presentation

Features of emotional sphere and behaviour of children of preschool age with speech pathology

Svetlana Shuvarova* and Victor Sevastyanov

Address: Center of Speech Pathology and Neurorehabilitation, Russian Federation

* Corresponding author

from International Society on Brain and Behaviour: 2nd International Congress on Brain and Behaviour
Thessaloniki, Greece. 17–20 November 2005

Published: 28 February 2006

Annals of General Psychiatry 2006, 5(Suppl 1):S207 doi:10.1186/1744-859X-5-S1-S207

Background

Process of formation of speech begins with since early age of the child and influences upon cognitive, personal and behavioural development of the child, qualitatively transforming and accelerating it. Through active speech dialogue with environmental people the child receives the basic information necessary for his personal development. Thus, infringements of speech it should be reflected in development of the child.

At the present study we aim to describe features of emotional and behaviour of children of preschool age with a speech pathology for early rehabilitation.

Materials and methods

We examined 69 children with a speech pathology from the age of 4 to 7 years old. Methods of research included questionnaires of parents and tutors, supervision, drawing tests, the anxiety test, studying of a self-estimation.

Results

The following features of emotional sphere are found out: supersensitivity, petulance, touchiness, malignancy, cruelty, anxiety, phobia, jealousy, aggression, depression, a low level of a self-estimation. 56 % of children have disruptive behaviour.

Discussion

Results of research show, those children with a speech pathology already at preschool age have the secondary psychological problems influencing upon development of the person of the child and promoting fastening of negative forms of reaction.

References

1. Cruttenden A: Language in infancy and childhood. Manchester 1979.

2. Elkonin DB: Children psychology (development of child from birth to seven). Moscow 1960.